And to Twenty Eight private Bills.

After which His Majeſty was pleaſed to make the following moſt gracious Speech.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

YOU having now diſpatched all the Publick Buſineſs that it was practicable for you to go through with at preſent, and the Seaſon of the Year being ſo far advanced, I believe it will not be diſagreeable to you, that I give you an Opportunity of retiring into the Country, by putting an End to this Seſſion of Parliament.

It is unneceſſary for me to repreſent to you the happy State and Situation of Publick Affairs both at home and abroad. You muſt all be ſenſible of what is univerſally ſeen and felt in the full Enjoyment of a general Peace. The Concurrence of the States General in the late Treaty of Vienna has perfected the Eſtabliſhment of the publick Tranquillity, as far as human Prudence can foreſee or provide; and a faithful Obſervance and Execution of the Treaties and Alliances now ſubſiſting among the ſeveral Princes and Powers of Europe, free from groundleſs Jealouſies, and void of all ambitious Views, will be the moſt effectual Means to continue and preſerve theſe Bleſſings to us.

Gentlemen of the Houſe of Commons,

I return you my Thanks for the Proviſions you have made for the Defence and Security of the Kingdom, and for carrying on the Service of the current Year. It is a great Satisfaction to me to ſee you have turned your Thoughts towards raiſing the neceſſary Supplies, by ſuch Methods as may be the leaſt burthenſome to my People: And as this cannot but be received in the Country as a moſt grateful and acceptable Service, I hope it will encourage you to purſue ſuch Meaſures for the future, as may on all Occaſions render the Supplies that ſhall be neceſſary, as equal and eaſy as is poſſible.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

It being neceſſary for me to viſit my German Dominions this Year, I have determined to leave the Queen Regent here during my Abſence; and I doubt not but it will be your Endeavours to make the Government as eaſy

to

to her, as, I am confident, it will be her Care, by a juſt and prudent Adminiſtration, to deſerve your duty and regard. I recommend to you all, in your ſeveral Stations, to ſtudy and conſult the Preſervation of the Peace and Quiet of the Kingdom.

Then the Lord Chancellor, by His Majeſty's Command, ſaid,

My Lords and Gentlemen,

IT is His Majeſty's Royal Will and Pleaſure, That this Parliament be Prorogued to Thurſday the Twenty ſeventh Day of July next, to be then here held; and this Parliament is accordingly Prorogued to Thurſday the Twenty ſeventh Day of July next.
